Trailing Underscores in Filenames vs. Foldernames

A trailing underscore is required when the identifier is coming from the image filename, but when the identifier comes from the foldername, the training underscore is not required.

Attachment works properly:

Attachment fails:

Attachment works properly when the folder is dragged:

